January 14, 2013, LOS ANGELES, CA - Youth Publications announced today their official launch of the NaturaCare® Online Natural Healing Network (www.NaturaCare.net) that helps consumers to learn about Natural Healing Therapies, and to quickly and easily find top Natural Healing Practitioners across the country, and also Energy Healers who can heal anywhere in the world. NaturaCare® is a membership-based healing network, where members pay a small monthly donation to access a wide variety of cutting-edge dynamic natural healing practices. After signing up, members can watch educational videos, decide on natural healing therapies to experience, and access, the Practitioner Directory to find NaturaCare® Healing Providers, who specialize in the desired therapies. Plus, their Membership will entitle them to as much as a 20% discount on NaturaCare® Healing Providers' services.

In spite of seeming advances in traditional medicine, the overall health of the American population is steadily deteriorating. Some diseases that were once rare less than twenty years ago have now swelled to almost epidemic proportions. Diabetes is now becoming a "childhood" disease. High blood pressure, heart disease, cancers, autism, and other chronic diseases, are on the rise. And the American population is now the heaviest on the planet, with over 66% considered overweight, and 33% clinically obese.

"The time has come for American People to courageously take control of their own health, rather than remaining totally dependent on the American medical, pharmaceutical, and commercial agricultural industries," says Annie Pierce, president of Youth Publications. "The statistics sadly show that during the last 70 years, most of the so-called 'scientific advances' made in all three of these industries, have proven to be a detriment for the long-term health and wellness of the American people. And, true, we may be living longer now, but at what quality of life?"

Many NaturaCare® Healing Providers have the ability to heal NaturaCare® Members over any distance, and in the comfort of the Members' very own homes or offices.
